Celebrations and Commemorative Events

Report on Gireesh Karnad Commemoration

Department of Journalism and Mass Communication conducted a commemorative talk about Gireesh Karnad, the famous playwright on 11th June 2019 at SIAS Audio visual theatre. The session was handled by Basil CK, Second year JMC student. Almost 20 people including students and teachers attended the session. Basil depicted a clear life picture of Gireesh Karnad through his words. Though the entire country knows him by his prolific work as a playwright in Kannada, Girish Karnad had something else in his mind that he aspired about. He wanted to become a poet in English and wanted to get settled down in England. He aspired to become a poet next to T.S Eliot. It was one of the reasons why he moved abroad for his studies. The session was capable of addressing less known facts about him. Mr. Sreekumar (HOD, Department of English) and Mr. Akhilnath KS (Department of JMC) shared their thoughts in the later session.

“Necessity is the mother of Inventions”, said Plato. The Department of Food Technology organized Madverden 2020, the Interdepartmental Food Tech Fest on January 20th 2020. Every year the food tech fest is conducted to unleash the talents of students to a wider world. Exploring the scope of a wide variety of food items which are more nutritious and cheaper, prepared by the students were exhibited during the programme. Immensely talented students are always the essence of the department who clearly showcases the importance of a Food Technologist in a modern era. The programme was inaugurated by our beloved Principal Prof. E.P. Imbichikoya. The effective utilization of the food waste materials is a major challenge which we face nowadays. Mind blowing art galleria was created using waste materials from food by the students. History and evolution of food packaging materials was also a new experience for the viewers. ‘Live kitchen’ inside the exhibition stall was also a great experience.

Republic Day Celebration

NSS unit of SAFI Institute of Advanced Study hoist a flag.

“Women and Child Nutrition” on Women’s Day

In commemoration with Women’s Day, celebrated on March 8th, Department of Food Technology organized an invited talk on ‘Women and child nutrition’ in association with Women Development cell, SIAS. The programme was conducted exclusively for the girls and lady staff of the college who has to be main contributors of building a society of both physically and mentally healthy citizens. In a developing-country malnutrition on its current scale, one-third of all children causes untold human suffering. Malnutrition is associated with more than half of all child deaths worldwide. It is the source of a major waste of resources and lost productivity because children who are malnourished are less physically and intellectually productive as adults. The underlying causes of malnutrition, which manifest themselves at the household level, are food insecurity, inadequate maternal and child care practices, and poor health environments and services.
